Ride for Sight

Organizers of the Ride For sight want the event back in Minden, but some councillors feel the Ride may have outgrown the town. Please see page 2.

Beating the dust

Back roads may be dusty in Dysart Township for a while, but eventually they may all be paved if council goes ahead with its plans. Please see page 6.

Salvage yard woes

Worried about the pitfalls of having a wrecking yard in the neighbourhood, Gelert area residents let council know how they feel. Please see page 7.

Flu season

Along with the cool damp weather of fall comes the flu season. There is help, though, for those who need it. Please see page 13.

Hamming it up

The airwaves are humming with the chatter of local radio Hams, who derive great pleasure from their hobby and have a little lighthearted fun on the side. Please see page 16.

Lakes

Hawk Lake residents are hoping their lake will not drop by more than seven feet in the future. They are asking the waterway to make that the maximum drawdown. Please see page 8.

CHACE HAS A NEW HOME!

It was a big day Friday for the little people who helped local MPP John Eakins cut the ribbon to mark the opening of the new CHACE Daycare Centre on Prentice Street in Minden. The province provided much of the funding to buy the house and get it ready for Friday's opening.

Private roads pose problems

Council is stuck between a rock and a hard place when it comes to the future snow removal on private roadways in Snowdon Township.

Snowdon Council is faced with two difficult options, both of which are bound to upset some of the residents. They can continue to plow the private roads at the expense of all ratepayers. Or, they can discontinue the plowing at the risk of angering the residents of those roads.

Although the township has plowed about four miles of private roads in the township for years, it receives no funding from the Ministry of Transportation for this. At last Monday's council meeting it was revealed that the cost to the township to plow these roads amounted to about $4,200 last year alone. This is over and above what the residents of these roads pay for the service.

Two delegations of residents from the Valley Road approached council Monday asking that their road be plowed again this winter. John Calverley told council that there are a number of year-round residents who live on the road, several of whom are seniors. If the road isn't plowed this winter, "it's going to cause a few problems," he said.

"I agree 100 per cent with you and your philosophy," said Reeve George Simmons. He said council has approached the ministry to see about taking over three private roads with little success.

Simmons said these roads should have been assumed by the township 10 or 15 years ago. Now the ministry's rules are more stringent about the standards roads must be up to before a municipality can take them over, said Simmons.

According to Councilor Al Jopling, who chairs the township's roads commit-

15 trees must face the axe

About 15 big old pine trees in the Twelve Mile Cemetery are marked for removal this fall, to the chagrin of at least one area cottager.

Jake Fowell, who owns property on Twelve Mile Lake Road, noticed last week that the huge trees had been marked with spray paint, indicating that they are to be cut down. "It's amazing that anyone would want to do this," Fowell told The Times last week. The trees add a great deal to the charm of the 99-year-old church yard, he said.

George Johnson, who is the caretaker of the cemetery, says the trees have to be removed to make space for more plots. He said there is starting to be a shortage of space in the cemetery and the trees take up a lot of room.

Johnson says it would be possible to dig graves around the base of the trees, but that would mean cutting through their roots, which would ultimately kill the trees. "There's just no getting out of it," he said. If the trees are left standing and the roots are cut, they will pose a real hazard, he said.

Fowell says it's ironic that the trees are being cut down just prior to the church's centennial year. "If they're fixing it up for the centennial, they're doing the wrong thing," Fowell says some of the trees to be cut are as old as the church itself.

The maintenance of the cemetery was taken over early this summer by the Minden Cemetery Board. Prior to this, it was managed by local residents and the families of those interred at Twelve Mile Lake Cemetery.

Fowell said the first sign of change at the cemetery was the removal of all the raspberry plants along the fence row. He said he was upset about that, but that it pales in comparison to the removal of the old trees.

Fowell described the cemetery as a beautiful setting with its tall trees overlooking the lake and nearby beach. "Now it's beginning to look like Scarborough, for God's sake"

Johnson said that once the trees are removed and graves are put in place, new trees can again be planted. The old trees with their far-reaching roots take up a lot of space, he said. "We have to make more lots and we have to make full use of the grounds."

Davis leads effort to win hospital funds

As a last ditch effort to pull the proposed Haliburton Hospital expansion out of the fire, Stanhope Reeve Harry Davis is spearheading a campaign to force the Ministry of Health to reconsider its stand.

A sudden change of tack in the ministry's approach to health care in the province has placed the 18-bed chronic care expansion of the Haliburton Hospital in doubt. A recent meeting with Health Minister Eleanor Caplan confirmed that the ministry will be placing its emphasis on alternative health care rather than hospital expansions.

The initial stage of Davis' pressure campaign will involve the full-page advertisements in the two local newspapers. The ads outline the steps that have been taken to create more hospital beds in Haliburton and encourage readers to join in the effort by clipping the page and mailing it to their MPPs.

Davis received full support for his actions from Stanhope Council last Wednesday. Council unanimously endorsed a resolution supporting Davis in his bid to force the ministry make good on its promise of funding for the hospital expansion.

The original cost estimate for the expansion was set at $1,375,000. The ministry promised to pay two thirds of this and the community was to pay the rest.

With an overwhelming response to the fund raising campaign, the goal was soon reached and the project was ready to go.

However, the expansion became entwined in red tape and the delays resulted in a tripling of the estimated cost.

Ride for Sight may have outgrown Minden

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

The Ride for Sight may have to look for a new home, if Minden council decides the annual event has outgrown local facilities.

Syd Collier, representative of the Ride for Sight organizers, attended last Thursday's council meeting to review the 1989 event and discuss plans for 1990.

This year the Ride attracted more than 5,000 people to Minden and raised $436,000 over the two days.

Council asked Collier if he thought perhaps the Ride had outgrown Minden's capacity to host the event. There was concern that because of the expansion of Minden's ball diamonds, there won't be enough space to accommodate the riders who camp on the Fair Grounds.

The $160,000 improvements include the construction of an additional ball diamond on the lower portion of the grounds. This space has been used for campsites for the Ride during past years.

Councillor Mike Maher also raised the possibility that the Minden arena may not be available during the Ride for Sight Weekend because it may be undergoing repairs at that time.

In response to the concerns, Collier said he didn't feel the event will experience much of an increase over this year's size. He said Ride organizers would have to work around not having the arena, if it was unavailable.

Collier doesn't see the loss of the lower campsites as a potential problem. He said the campsites on the upper portion of the Fair Grounds were less than half full and could accommodate the rest of the campers.

Collier said another community has expressed an interest in hosting the Ride for Sight, but that the organizers would prefer to return to Minden if allowed. He did not name the other community and said that option wouldn't be pursued unless Minden was no longer available.

Maher expressed concerns about the possibility of damage occurring to some of the ball diamond improvements during the Ride. He also has some doubts about moving the 'rowdy' campers, who usually set up in the lower portion of the grounds, to the upper portion which is closer to the senior citizens apartments and surrounding residential area.

Because both Reeve Ray Moore and Councillor Lewis Stevens were absent from last Thursday's meeting, the attending three council members agreed to postpone a final decision until October 11, when Collier will again meet with council.

Card system in the dumps

Dysart's new system of controlling access to the township dumps is not working.

At last Monday's meeting of council, the Deputy-Reeve called the new access card system a "comedy of errors," because it is not being enforced.

Earlier this year, Dysart tax payers were sent access cards along with their tax bills. The system was designed to stop non-Dysart residents from using the township's landfill sites by requiring that people show their cards to the dump attendant when using the site.

But because people are not being asked to produce their access cards, there is no way to ensure that only Dysart residents are using the dumps.

Councillor John Parish said that on a recent trip to the dump, he couldn't see an attendant and "people were swarming over the dump like flies."

Reeve Murray Fearrey said printing the cards was a waste of money if the dump attendants don't get out of their trucks and enforce the system.

Davis suggested that the committee sit down and "see what direction to go for the winter months," with regard to the card system.

Fencing is sought

Snowdon Township Council is hoping to qualify for a Ministry of Tourism and Recreation grant to cover part of the cost of fencing in the Irondale baseball diamond.

The township has applied for a $4,300 grant to cover half the cost of the project. Although the application is being submitted after the ministry's deadline, council is hopeful that it will still be given consideration.

If the grant is approved, the municipality will have to cover the remaining half of the cost. Volunteer labour in the installation of the fence can be counted as part of the municipality's contribution.

Clarification

Nicholas George's involvement in the Minden business, The Cobbler, is in name only, according to his son, Tom, who owns and operates the shop.

A story in The Times last week identified Nicholas George as the owner of the business.

Ministry demands high road standard tee, the ministry wants the roads brought up to a high standard before it would be willing to provide a maintenance subsidy. Jopling, who lives on one of the roads in question, says the ministry wants them to be paved.

"The Valley Road is as good as any road in the township," said Deputy Reeve Dwayne Wruth, "but you try and tell that to an engineer."

There is still some hope, though, that a revision to the the ministry's guidelines will allow the township to assume the roads in their present state. Jopling says there's a hint that the ministry might be coming out with a fourth road classification that these roads would fit into.

Simmons said council will be meeting with the ministry again later this month to see if this situation can be settled. "We're going to give it one more shot, and then it's up to the township to decide."

If this final pitch fails, it's back to square one for council to face those two difficult options. "The bottom line is either we get the subsidy or council will have to wrestle with the question of plowing about four miles of road with no subsidy," Simmons said.

Do we want Ride back?

Since coming to Minden several years ago, the Ride for Sight has been called both a blessing and a curse.

In terms of organization and ability to draw people to this remote village, the event has always been a success. And especially during last year's 10th anniversary Ride, the publicity from the event helped spread the word that Minden is a great place to visit.

Undeniably, though, the Ride has its share of pitfalls and no shortage of people who would like to see it sent away to some other community.

With as many as 5,000 people coming to town for a weekend of camping out in the park, there are bound to be some problems. Fortunately, the problems have been minor. (Although there are some who will dispute this.)

The question again confronting local politicians is, do they want it back this summer? The same question is asked every year, but this year it seems that political will might be tipping in favour of sending the Ride away.

Councillors are well aware of both the benefits and pitfalls of the Ride, but it's often difficult gauge the feelings of the community. Do we want it back or don't we?

Over the next few weeks, Minden councillors will be asking themselves this very question. They have to make up their minds before October 11, when the Ride organizers will be at a meeting looking for their answer.

Between now and October 11, area residents should be letting council know what they feel about this. If the community wants the ride back, someone is going to have to let council know. The same holds true if you would like to see it gone.

IS IT A BIRD? IS IT A PLANE?
IT'S SUPER-COTTAGER!

Sweet summer season has faded away

It's over.

The signs are unmistakable: aerial formations of robins, blackbirds and warblers wheeling and banking in dense commuter clusters above straggling clots of gloomy kids shuffling schoolwards. Trees which maintained a stately green for the past few months are suddenly shooting out snazzy bursts of gold and russet. Some leaves are falling and so is the temperature. Yep, no question about it -- the summer of '89 is definitely shrinking in the rear view mirror.

And not a moment too soon.

I'm delighted that the summer of '89 is history. It means I don't have to worry about another outbreak of Cottage Nostalgia until at least the spring of '90.

Do they have infestations of Cottage Nostalgia where you live? It's a virus that thrives under a variety of aliases. In the mountains, victims moon about going "back to the cabin". In other parts of the country they make plans to go "out to camp". Where I come from, folks go "up to the cottage".

We Canucks have been engaged in this cruel charade for decades -- obsessed with the idea that "up there" in the quasi-wilderness, serenaded stereophonically by the eerie ululations of the loons on the lake and the satisfying chuckle of fresh ground coffee perking on the camp stove...

Everything.
Will be.

Perfect.

It is to laugh loonishly.

Cottages are never perfect. They are never even close. Cottages -- or camps or cabins or whatever you choose to call them (a ruse by any other name) -- are fiendish, diabolical inventions created by a committee of sadists working under contract for the God of Bad Jokes.

I know. I got suckered again this past summer. Rented a cottage for ten days on a tiny little lake so remote there was no road to it. We had to go in by boat.

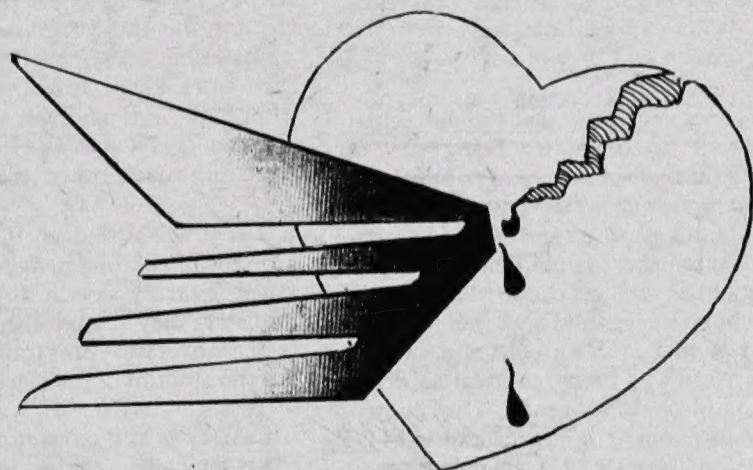

"You'll love it" I promised the kids as we bucketed along in a borrowed aluminum outboard. "Back to nature. Fish right off the dock. Reading by

Communication essential

Editor:

The enclosed cartoon is directed to city residents as an explanation of what is happening in Canadian small towns and villages. Other federal governmental policies are hurting rural areas as well, but the closure and privatization of post offices affects every person.

VIA cutback and closures will hit great numbers of people at one time, while closures and privatization of post offices adversely affects great numbers of people at different times and in small isolated groups.

Every school child learns that communication and transportation are vital components that hold every country together. Without good systems a country loses its identity very quickly. Every organization in existence needs readily available communication and transportation services to keep in touch with its constituents - be it R.C.M.P., Highway supervisors, Armed Forces, forest fire fighters, avalanche control

Contrary to character

Editor:

Re: The column written by Rev. E. Moll which appeared in the September 3 edition of The Times: "Eavesdropping on a conversation from above."

I wonder at the temerity of Rev. Moll, in ascribing to God's thoughts and words which are contrary to the character of God.

God deeply cares about His word being taught to His children. In Deuteronomy Chap. 6 he commanded - you shall love the Lord your God with all your heart, and with all your mind, and with all your strength. And you shall teach them diligently to your children and shall talk about them when you sit in your house; and when you walk outside; and when you sit down; and when you rise up.

coal oil lamp."

Surly grunts all around.

I had forgotten how utterly unhandy I am until the moment the Evinrude sputtered, coughed emphatically and died in the water. Luckily I still retain some rudiments of my early cub scout training -- viz. paddling.

Ever paddled a 14-foot aluminum outboard with a week's supplies, a smirking spouse and two terminally bored teenagers?

Bet you haven't done it using a cooler lid for a paddle.

As things turned out I kind of wish I'd backpaddled to the marina. The cottage door creaked open to reveal the afterdregs of what looked like a year-long orgy of thousands of rodents, none of them toilet-trained. The rest of the cottage was -- well, rustic. Pine gum on the kitchen chairs, insects the size of Dinky Toys scurrying across the floor, a hornet's nest in the fireplace. Sometimes when it was quiet we would just lie on the musty mattresses and stare at the awesome water stains on the ceiling. Well, the roof may have leaked but the windows were tight. Swollen shut as a matter of fact. Which was just as well because the screens had rips large enough to accommodate a Stealth bomber. What other praises can I sing -- the stove with two settings: lukewarm and blast furnace? The lake which stayed glacially cold? The refrigerator that didn't? The dock spiders as big as frisbees? The night-marauding raccoons that could give Detroit burglars a few professional pointers?

No. Why open old wounds? I survived the summer of '89 attack of Cottage Nostalgia, that's all that matters.

And I'll be eternally grateful if someone would be so kind as to mail me a copy of this column early next spring.

Dysart picks paving over dust suppression

Dysart council is considering cutting back on the amount of dust suppression used on the township roads in order to finance a wide-spread paving program.

Ministry of Environment regulations have banned the use of petroleum-based waste oil for dust suppression on roads, and council heard that the substitute being used is not as effective.

At last Monday's meeting, council addressed several complaints from local residents dealing with the condition of roads. Municipal Road Superintendent Jim Taylor said this year's dry weather has adversely affected all the roads. Taylor said the inferior by-product which has taken the place of waste oil for dust suppression doesn't last as long and any benefits from grading are lost in a matter of days.

Instead of wasting money of ineffective dust suppression, council discussed the possibility of using the funds to pave the roads over a four- or five-year period.

The cost of paving a road is $28,000 a mile, but after the initial outlay, the township would save maintenance costs for grading and oiling.

Reeve Murray Fearrey suggested that the township could collect a special road levy and use the money to begin hard-topping unpaved roads over a period of time. A similar measure was adopted by Dysart 15 years ago, said Fearrey.

There is also some hope that the province may increase the amount of money given to municipalities by the province for road maintenance.

Councillor Glen Hodgson said a provincial study indicates that the amount of traffic on Highways 118 and 35 has increased significantly over the last few years.

"The province has to know that the traffic is going on our roads," said Hodgson. "Our expenditures have to reflect that growth and they're not."

Fearrey suggested that the municipality should use the money being spent on dust suppression for hard-topping. "It would be almost better to put up with the complaints and pave," said Fearrey. "We're getting the complaints anyway, so we might as well get the roads covered."

Deputy-Reeve Bill Davis said last summer was just as dry as this summer but there wasn't as many complaints about the conditions of the roads. "Dust control is the problem. The substitute the MTO conned us into using is not adequate. It doesn't hold the grading."

In an interview later in the week, Fearrey said he's "seriously considering" either cutting back or suspending dust control to pay for paving. He realizes this will prompt increased complaints from residents living on unpaved roads but says, "we can't keep throwing good money after bad." If paving is made a priority, Fearrey says it won't be long until all the township roads are covered.

The township's decision hinges on the amount of funding provided by the province. Fearrey says it appears as if the ministry may come through with an increase over last year's transfer-payments, but the amount of the increase is yet to be seen.

Fearrey is still considering the special roads levy as an option in financing the paving program.

Dozens of dirt bikes roared through the backwoods of Haliburton County last weekend as competitors took part in the Corduroy Enduro. This year there were two local entries in the event as Murray Beetlestone and Dave Howell battled their way through the tough course.

Two hole in ones recorded at Blairhampton last week

The greens were smiling on two local golfers recently as they each recorded a hole in one at the Blairhampton Golf Course.

It was a golfer's dream come true for Cliff Porter, who aced the eighth hole on Sept. 12. The 173-yard hole in one was accomplished with a five iron. On hand to witness the shot were Bob and Jean Sweetman and Cliff's wife.

The very next day, John Meathiel conquered the 164-yard second hole at Blairhampton in a single shot. The feat was accomplished with a seven wood and witnessed by his wife, Barb.

These were just the second and third aces at Blairhampton this season.

Gelert salvage yard draws neighbours' scorn

'I can't see why your property values would drop,' Linnington responds to concerns

A bid to establish an automobile salvage yard near Gelert has won strong opposition from neighbouring residents.

Bill Linnington is planning to set up the salvage yard on his 21-acre property on County Road 1, but first needs rezoning approval from Snowdon Township Council. He outlined his plans for the venture during a public meeting at the Snowdon Council Chambers. Council also heard from about a dozen neighbours, who strongly oppose the proposal.

Linnington said he is designing the salvage yard in a way that it will not be visible from anywhere but on his own property. To accomplish this, he said he will be building strategically-placed berms and planting trees and shrubs.

To eliminate the potential environmental risk this sort of operation poses, he plans to build a garage with liquid storage tanks in the ground below. He said all vehicles brought into the yard will go straight to the garage, where all the fluids will be drained into the storage tanks. He said the good parts will then be removed from the vehicles and the shell will be transported to another part of the property for storage. As soon as he accumulates about 300 old vehicles, he says a crusher will come in and take them away.

"I'm trying to have a family business here for my son and myself," Linnington said. He said it took about two years of planning and research to get it to this point.

Addressing concerns that neighbouring properties will plummet as a result, Linington said he can't see why that would happen. "I can't see why your property value or anyone else's would drop," he told those objecting to his plans. "No one can see it."

'The bottom line is there are enough wrecking yards in the area and the people of Snowdon don't want one.'

In order to proceed with this business, Linnington must first have the property rezoned from its present rural designation to a zoning specifically for a salvage yard. Monday's public meeting was a chance for both Linnington and those opposed to the project to present their views around and pick up all the dead animals. He said the antifreeze from cars and trucks is poisonous enough to kill most animals within two days.

Walter Griffin, who also live in the area, advised council that it is headed for problems if it approves this rezoning. He noted that there is already a salvage yard on South Lake Road, and that has "caused nothing but problems."

Since there is already a salvage yard in the area, Griffin said there is no need for another one. "Do we need it?" he asked. "I don't think we need that."

"The bottom line is there are enough wrecking yards in the area and the people of Snowdon don't want one," said Griffin. "I hope council's getting the message."

The idea of building berms and planting trees is fine as long as there's never a fire in the area, said Griffin. However, if there is a fire, the trees will be gone and it will be at least another 10 years before they can grow back and hide the salvage yard from view.

Putting up a fence around the yard would be even less desirable to Griffin. He said he has seen the sort of fences that go up around salvage yards, "and I wouldn't be too proud of that."

In addition to the potential drop in property values and pollution, neighbouring residents raised several other concerns. These included the possibility of a smell from the yard, possible damage to the soil of neighbouring properties where there is a sugar maple stand and some farm land, fear of contamination to wells, and the possibility of stray dogs and cats taking up home in the yard.

Another objector cast some doubt on Linnington's promise to maintain a clean business. He said Linnington is already doing some salvage work on the property without council's approval. "That's not by the book," he said. "If he's doing this behind your back now, what's he going to do later?" he asked council.

Linnington said he is not doing anything behind council's back. He said he has been storing gas tanks on his property, but they are left there for only a short time before he moves them out. He admitted that he does have several vehicles parked on the property, but said they are not wrecks.

If Linnington does get approval for his salvage yard, he will have to get an annual permit from the township for the operation. This gives council the power to keep Linnington in check.

Council will be making its decision about the rezoning at its Oct. 2 meeting at 7 p.m. If approval for the rezoning is granted, residents still have the option of requesting an Ontario Municipal Board hearing on the matter.

Drawdown limit is proposed

A bid to limit the annual drawdown of water from Hawk Lake received the support of Stanhope Township Council last Wednesday.

The Hawk and Halls Lake Cottage Association hopes to find some relief from the plummeting lake levels experienced each year on Hawk Lake by convincing the Trent Severn Waterway to limit the drawdown to seven feet. The average drop in the level of that lake from spring to fall is about nine feet, but has dipped as low as 12 feet in the past.

By limiting the drawdown to just seven feet, the cottage association is optimistic that navigation routes on the lake can remain open throughout the summer.

Putting a maximum drawdown on Hawk Lake will, however, affect other lakes in the Trent Severn reservoir system. Council heard that the difference between a seven- and nine-foot drawdown in Hawk Lake will make about a two-inch difference in the rest of the lakes.

While council's support of the bid may carry some weight, the ultimate decision will have to be made by the waterway authority, which is a branch of Parks Canada.

Reeve Harry Davis, who is the former chairman of the Haliburton Highlands Water Levels Advisory Committee, said he would like to see this proposal implemented on a trial basis. He also said, though, the people on Hawk Lake bought their properties knowing that the water levels fluctuate.

Councillor Murray Daniels said the seven-foot limit has been mentioned in the past but the waterway authority just ignores it. "I'll support anything that's reasonable," he added. "I'd like to see the tap shut right off downstream."

Septic inspections are the Ministry's responsibility

A request for mandatory inspections of septic systems upon resale of property in Snowdon Township has been volleyed back into the Ministry of Environment's court.

At last Monday's meeting, Snowdon Township Council was asked by the president of the Canning Lake Cottagers Association to adopt a by-law that would require an inspection of all septic systems whenever a property is resold. Council concluded that enforcement of such a by-law is beyond their means and forwarded the request on to the ministry.

The condition of septic systems falls under the ministry's jurisdiction, said Reeve George Simmons. Inspections of these systems is outside the the by-law enforcement officer's area of expertise, he added.

The request was made in writing by association president Gary Kapac. The purpose of the request is to ensure that septic systems are inspected more often than at present to protect lakes from unnecessary contamination.

Resort owners still back sewer plans

Despite impending delays and cost increases, resort owners on the north shore of Lake Kashagawigamog still support the proposed sewer line extension.

The owners held a meeting last week with the project consultants, MPP John Eakins and Reeve Murray Fearrey to consider and discuss some of the recent developments in the issue.

Art Ward, owner of the Wig-A-Mog Inn, described the meeting as "positive" and said the resort owners are still fully behind the project and are optimistic it will proceed.

The proposal is currently in the hands of the Ministry of the Environment which is considering a request by the Lake Kashagawigamog Association to have the project "bumped up" to an Individual Environmental Assessment.

According to ministry officials, the project will most likely be investigated by the Environmental Assessment

Advisory Committee, which will hold a series of public hearings to determine what impact the project will have on the environment.

Some residents are concerned that the expansion of the Dysart Sewage Treatment Plant, which is necessary to handle the effluent from the proposed resort sewer line, will cause a deterioration in the water quality of the Lake Kashagawigamog chain.

Ward says Eakins still supports the expansion and is confident everything will be done to address environmental concerns and get the project underway.

The resort owners understand that the process has to follow its natural course and that concern for the environment can't be overlooked, says Ward. He admits that the delays are frustrating and the resort owners "would like to see the shovels going into ground" but says they will just have to be patient.

Stanhope grants four donations

Stanhope Township Council approved the granting of donations to four organizations at its meeting last Wednesday.

The Haliburton County Fair Board will be getting a donation of $100, Club 35 will get $263, the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association will receive $1,000 and the Canadian National Institute for the Blind will receive $50.

Councillor Fred Gardner was not in favour of the donation to the CNIB. He said he doesn't feel it's right for council to make donations on the behalf of the taxpayers.

"I'm not debating the amount or the worthiness of the cause," he said. However, he said it should be up to individuals to decide which charities they want to support.

Silversmith at Rails' End Gallery

Lois Etherington
Betteridge:
Recent Work
September 16 - October 14

There are growing numbers of gold and silversmiths active in Canada today. Few, however, transcend the marriage of functional object with technical mastery inspired by artistic vision. One of these few is Lois Etherington Betteridge, whose works in metal are aesthetic, often whimsical, yet honest to their function and purpose.

The contribution of Lois

Betteridge to Canadian silversmithing spans more than thirty-five years. Among Canadians, she is one of the very few to measure internationally as a major fine-art silversmith. This standing is attested to in an array of awards and exhibitions, crowning emblems of which are her election in 1974 as a distinguished member of the Society of North American Goldsmiths, and her reception in 1978 of the Saidye Bronfman Award for Excellence in the Crafts from the Canadian Crafts Council. Her success has a special poignancy, because she is a woman in what in Canada has historically been an absolute male domain.

This exhibition will feature over fifty of Lois Betteridge's most recent hollowware and jewellery. About the work, Lois remarks: "Although there are times when my ideas are expressed in sculpture, I am primarily concerned with the functional object. For me, the functional object is a way to celebrate the many "rituals" of our lives. Rituals we may not be aware of, but which, when celebrated, become meaningful, beautiful and formal, extending the role of objects far beyond mere function."

Lois Etherington Betteridge: Recent Work opens at the Rails' End Gallery on Saturday, September 16 and continues until Saturday, October 14. The public is invited to meet Lois Betteridge on Saturday, September 16 at 7:30 p.m. at the Rails' End Gallery.

Vaccinations help beat the flu bug

The Haliburton, Kawartha, Pine Ridge District Health Unit is recommending that senior citizens in the area be vaccinated against influenza during the next couple of months.

Every year in Canada, hundreds of people die of influenza, or what we commonly call the 'flu', and thousands more suffer very serious, life-threatening illness.

People over the age of 65 are considered to be in high risk of flu-related complications and this year they will receive free vaccination shots as part of a flu prevention campaign.

Especially at risk are seniors with chronic heart, lung or kidney disease, diabetes, cancer or anemia. Residents of nursing homes or chronic care facilities frequently fall into this category and are at additional risk because their institutional environment may promote the spread of the disease.

Influenza is a contagious respiratory disease caused by a virus. We tend to think of anything which causes the sniffles, headache, muscle ache, stomach ache, nausea, fever or diarrhea as the 'flu' but there are many viruses which can cause these symptoms—the common cold and a host of other respiratory viruses included.

But only the influenza virus has such wide ranging effects that it poses a real threat to your system.

Influenza is extremely contagious—one of the most contagious viruses found and anyone can get it. Up to 30 per cent of the population may contract influenza in a severe epidemic. The real danger with influenza is the complications.

The influenza virus leaves your body's resistance weakened and open to other infections. Bacterial pneumonia is the most common complication and it can be very serious, especially to the elderly.

Non-bacterial complications are less common but can be even more serious. These may include viral pneumonia, acute kidney failure, and a variety of nervous system disorders. Any of these complications can be fatal. It is estimated that more than 1,000 Canadians die each year from influenza.

In any given year the influenza vaccine provides between 70 per cent and 90 per cent protection against influenza.

It won't protect you from the common cold or any of those other viruses that have symptoms similar to influenza. If you get the sniffles after your flu shot it's most likely because you happened to pick up another contagious virus.

The vaccine should be administered in September or October to give your body time to build up an immunity before the flu season starts in November.

Today's influenza vaccines are extremely safe—most people have little or no reaction to the vaccine. A few people may experience some tenderness at the spot where the injection is given. The only people who are not advised to receive the vaccine are people who are allergic to eggs or egg products because there may be minute traces of egg protein in the vaccine which could cause an adverse reaction.

The National Advisory Committee on Immunization also recommends flu vaccine for people who could spread the disease to those at high risk. This includes doctors, nurses and medical professionals who work with elderly patients, food service workers and others who live in close contact with a high risk individual.

Jean Taylor of the Health Unit, says her department is trying to meet with various seniors organizations throughout the area to promote the vaccine campaign. The presentations began in early September and continue through to the last week in October.

In connection with the promotion, the Health Unit is circulating a survey to local seniors asking whether or not they've received the vaccination in the past, and what kind of living accommodations they have.

On October 27, a draw will be held from among the completed surveys and prizes will be given out.

First prize is a microwave oven donated by Moynes Furniture in Minden, other prizes include $50 gift certificates from Paulette's and Black's Home Hardware, a copy of Chris Bishop's book from The Nook, $25 gift certificate from Country Rose, and $10 from Nancy's Flowers.

According to recent studies, only about 20 per cent of the people in the high risk group receive immunization from influenza. According to Dr. Carl Hartwick of the Health Unit, 80 per cent of the people must be vaccinated in order to prevent an epidemic of the virus.

love and God's word to our children. They are our Jewish-Christian heritage; given first to God's people, the Jews; and when Christ came to earth, to the entire world. It was upon these and other of God's laws that our nation was founded - so is the heritage of all who call themselves Canadians.

The Lord's Prayer, taught by Jesus to his disciples, is part and parcel of God's word. In it Jesus teaches us that God is hallowed, that He is the "Holy One". He teaches us that God is our provider; and He teaches us that, through Him, we have forgiveness and we learn to forgive.

Surely these things belong to our children and need to be taught in places where all children can hear them, namely in our schools. For God's word, along with the three R's, will prepare them for a good life on planet earth; and also for the world to come.

personnel, ambulance service, car parts supplies, bills-to-pay, etc., etc. Every organization knows that the supply lines and communication links are of vital importance. Indeed, if broken, their very existence (theirs and ours) withers and dies. Surely, the present federal government members attended elementary school? Surely they know what they are doing to rural Canadians?

The Rural Canadian Refugee problem has already appeared in our big cities. These Canadian refugees obviously need all the services (job, housing, schools, health services) that the present government so assiduously destroyed in the countryside.

Rural post offices are an every necessity for the growing number of seniors, a million of whom live in small towns and villages in rural areas across Canada.

Hams do it over the airwaves

From the cozy "shack" beyond the living room in his home in Hunter Creek Estates, Cec Jones keeps in touch with friends around the world. Some he has met in person, while others are just a voice from some far-off land. Like Jones, all of them are Ham Radio Operators.

Attentively sitting behind a panel of switches, knobs, gauges and a multitude of other other controls, Jones deftly manoeuvres one of the dials until a faint, crackling voice can be heard. He turns the dial another fraction of an inch and the voice, someone named Wally in Arizona, comes clear over the speaker. Another faint voice returns the banter. Jones recognizes this voice; it's his friend, Colin, from England.

Every Wednesday at about 2 p.m. Colin sits down in his radio shack in England and places his long-distance calls to fellow radio enthusiasts around the world. Jones is aware of Colin's schedule and takes the opportunity to demonstrate just how far he can reach from his own little shack in Lutterworth Township.

Jones is the president of the local Amateur Radio Club, which has 16 members. In addition to chatting with each other over the airwaves, the members meet each Friday at Boppa's Restaurant in Minden to discuss their hobby and plan out their participation in various local events.

Two weekends ago, the Ham Radio Operators could be seen spread out along the course of the Corduroy Enduro motorcycle race. As they have done for years, the local radio operators provided the radio communication for the race. Other local events they participate in include the Heinekin Yard, the Walk for Water, and the Dog Sled Derby. This summer they also provided back-up communications for the World Cup White Water Slalom in Minden.

Although the service they provide is invaluable to the organization putting on these events, the Ham operators will not accept any money for their work. "It's all volunteer," says Jones. "One of the conditions to the licence is that we can't accept money." Another restriction is that they are not allowed to conduct any sort of business over the radio, except in the case of an emergency like the Mississauga train derailment. "Technically, I can't get on and call Lee (Oster) and ask him to pick me up a pizza in town."

So, why do these people put themselves to the trouble? Why do they stand out in the weather during events when they can't expect to be paid for their work? Part of the answer is that it's their way of contributing to the community. But, for the most part, they do it for the enjoyment derived from this hobby.

"I do it because I love it," Jones says of his hobby. He says amateur radio can be fun and there is a lot of camaraderie among Hams.

Part of that camaraderie is a penchant for practical jokes among the local club members. Jones recalls returning home from a vacation to find his garage door plastered with stickers, baked on by the summer sun.

Recently, club member Reg Argyle returned from a week in England (which included a visit with Colin) to find his house decorated like a Christmas tree. Tin cans were stacked up between the front doors of his house and flying at full mast from his radio antenna was a pair of long johns. (Argyle's call letters are

Cec Jones' humble radio shack houses close to $3,000 worth of equipment that helps him keep in contact with friends around the world. An important piece of his equipment is a television set that he leaves on whenever he's using the radio. It lets him know if his hobby may be causing interference to neighbours' television VE3-DTU, with the 'DTU' standing for Dirty Torn Underwear) The culprits who devised this practical joke have not been identified, but Argyle has his suspicions.

It's plain that around home the members have a lot of good spirited fun, but the clowning around stops when they sit down in front of their radios. Getting an amateur radio licence isn't an easy task and the members don't want to jeopardize their licences by fooling around over the airwaves.

According to Jones, there are three levels of licences. A digital licence which is restricted to the VHF band is designed for people with an interest in computers. The second level, the Basic Amateur Radio Certificate, requires an operator to be able to send a minimum of 10 words per minute in Morse Code as well as to have an understanding of radio theory.

The final licence is the advanced level and entitles an operator to all the privileges within of the amateur bands. This includes things like amateur television, moon bounce, satellite communications, and high-frequency communications.

It takes about 40 hours of instruction to qualify for the advanced licence, says Jones. The courses run for 20 weeks, two hours each week. There aren't enough people in this area to hold a course

(More on page 17)

Practical jokes among the local hams are just part of the fun the members have among themselves. Reg Argyle recently returned home from a vacation in England to find this sign and creative flag dangling from his radio antenna.

Bell spends big to keep lines humming

In 1988, Bell Canada spent $1,090,000 on remote digital switching equipment to improve service for the 2,923 customers in the Minden exchange.

As well, Bell paid $101,008.35 in municipal taxes to Anson, Hindon, and Minden Township. This included $2,309.08 in Real Estate tax, $652.42 in Business tax, and $98,046.85 in Gross Receipts tax. Another $3,179,315.50 was spent on payroll expenses for the 123 Bell employees in the Lindsay area.

The Gross Receipts tax is set at five percent of all telecommunications revenue from Bell operations in Ontario in the preceding year. The amount apportioned to each exchange is based on the number of Bell telephones in use. In 1988, this was $30.41 per telephone.

In addition, in 1988 Bell spent a total of $2.2 billion on capital improvements. Of this, $1.408 billion was spent in Ontario. The forecast for 1989 is $2.3 billion, with $1.387 billion to be spent in Ontario.

Local improvement highlights in 1988 included $1,090,000 spent on installing remote digital switching equipment in the Minden switching centre.

Local plans for 1989 include $455,000 to be spent on:

-Placing cable to serve new subdivisions and telephone answering services;

-Installing electronic equipment on Highway 35 and Tennyson Road, and -Installing digital transmission equipment in this switching centre.

"This investment helps to maintain affordable, high quality local telephone service for the people of Minden," says Linda Lewis, Bell's local manager. "It's part of Bell's overall construction program that represents an investment of more than $300 per customer per year."

Jones' interest in radio sparked at a young age

here, so those who are working on their licences have to drive to either Peterborough, Newmarket or Barrie.

Jones' interest in radio was sparked back in high school when he was introduced to the subject in one of his courses. He later served in the radio corps, after which he took several other courses in radio theory to expand his knowledge.

Jones, who is the youngest of 10 children, found the radio to be a useful link with his brothers and sisters, who were living in various parts of the world. At one point he says he and two of his brothers kept in touch over the radio on a regular schedule. With his shack situated midway between the two, Jones was able to patch together a strong signal for them.

The term 'radio shack' is a bit of a misnomer these days. Jones says its origin comes from the rooms on board ships where the radio equipment was located. He says these rooms were little more than shacks. Going way back, he says actual radio shacks were built out in a vacant field, next to the antenna and as far away from interference as possible. Today, most shacks are like Jones', situated inside the house.

In Canada alone, there are about 25,000 of these shacks, hosting an equal number of operators. Part of the challenge for the 16 local Hams is to make contact with as many fellow radio enthusiasts in Canada and abroad as possible. With so many Hams keeping the airwave alive with their chatter, the possibilities are endless.

Hi Kids!
Here is another puzzle for you with a word list. Look in the diagram of letters for the words given in the list. Find them by reading up, down, forward, backward and diagonally.

They are all in a straight line and do not skip letters. Circle the words in the diagram and cross it off the list.

It's as easy as that. Have fun!

Seniors enjoy music, bingo

Thursday was tea party day and Kinmount Baptist Church brought a delicious luncheon which was served in the auditorium. The ladies were assisted by two gentlemen. After the luncheon, Pastor Don Payne of Kinmount entertained us by playing the mouthorgan, and Doris played the piano. They played a few favourite hymns. Pastor Don Wilkin-son closed by a prayer. The residents thank them kindly.

Mr. Tom McAllister called bingo for us Thursday evening. This was his last night to call bingo for us because the Kinsmen will be starting again now holiday season is over. We have enjoyed Tom coming during the summer and we thank him sincerely. He said anytime we needed someone to give him a call and he could call for us. As usual Friday afternoon we have happy hour. For entertainment, Freddie Cooper played the accor-dian and Sinc Russell played the banjo and Doris the piano. Fred and Sinc hadn't played together since 1936.

Everyone enjoyed them and will be happy to have them whenever they can come. Ruby Schmidt and Bill Moore danced a few dances for us. They have known each other all their

How do you measure...

- ☐ Leadership? ☐ Excellence? ☐ Courage?
- ☐ Dedication? ☐ Initiative? ☐ Selflessness?

Outstanding contributions to the quality of life in our communities are being made everyday by young citizens. Do you know someone between the ages of 6 and 18 who has demonstrated selfless service, overcome a physical or psychological limitation, performed an act of heroism, shown initiative, or simply a dedication to the well-being of those around them? Someone who has more than "measured up" in their commitment to others?

You can help Canadian Airlines International and the Ontario Community Newspapers Association honour that special someone by nominating them for an Ontario Junior Citizen of the Year Award. Every nominee receives a certificate and up to 12 individuals and one group will be the recipients of a plaque presented by the Lieutenant Governor of Ontario, $200.00 and a family portrait with the Lieutenant Governor. Nominations are accepted up to October 31st, 1989.

Programs provide environment education

Five youth employment programs administered by the Ministry of Natural Resources helped approximately 4,000 young people learn more about their natural environment this summer.

Most of the young workers are nearing the end of projects to clean up river banks, collect data on wetlands, improve wildlife habitat, develop hiking and interpretive trails, rehabilitate fish habitat and a host of other ecology-related tasks.

"These programs increase young people's awareness of conservation issues and the importance of resource management," Natural Resources Minister Lyn McLeod said. "At the same time, the workers' efforts provide valuable assistance to the ministry."

The most recently launched program is the Environmental Youth Corps, in which the allocation of funds is shared among five provincial ministries, with the Ministry of Natural Resources responsible for 70 per cent of this year's $11-million budget.

"So far, the Ministry of Natural Resources has allocated funds to provide over 2,200 jobs in more than 500 EYC projects across the province," McLeod said.

In one project, 13 youths from the Pic/Heron Bay

Indian Band are clearing debris and fallen logs from

Community clinic at St. Joseph's

Saint Joseph's General Hospital, Peterborough, has been approved by the Workers' Compensation Board (W.C.B.) to establish the first Community Clinic in Peterborough and the surrounding four-county area.

The Community Clinic is an important component of the Workers' Compensation Board's new decentralized Medical Rehabilitation Strategy, which will see the development of a provincial medical rehabilitation institute, eleven regional evaluation centres and twenty-five community clinics.

The goal of the Community Clinic will be to return the injured worker to the pre-accident state of health, including restoration of normal activities. The Clinic is expected to be in operation by mid September and will be capable of handling up to 50 referrals per month. The Clinic will be located in the Physiotherapy Department at the Time Square location.

The Board of Trustees of Saint Joseph's General Hospital is very pleased to be associated with the new Workers' Compensation Board initiative and welcomes this natural addition to the Hospital's Rehabilitation service.

the shorelines, fish spawning areas and canoe routes of the Black River, located on the north shore of Lake Superior near the Town of Marathon.

In another, 12 youths are helping upgrade the interpretive programs at Presqu'île Provincial Park east of Cobourg. The youths are improving interpretive trails to allow handicapped access and are collecting data on the park's wildlife and plants.

The other youth programs are Experience '89, Junior Rangers, the Internship Program and the Ontario/Quebec Summer Student Exchange.

Experience '89 is a career-oriented training program that gives young people from 15 to 24 years old the opportunity to learn a skill by working in a government agency. The ministry is a major participant in the program, receiving $3.2-million from the Ministry of Skills Development to provide 1,250 positions in ministry field offices and Conservation Authorities.

The Ministry's long-established Junior Ranger program gives 17-year-old high school students a chance to perform resource management tasks such as planting trees, creating canoe portage routes and cleaning beaches. This year, the ministry has spent $4.5-million employing 900 teenagers in 34 camps across the province. An additional 321 teenagers are in the Level II program, which is designed to give those who do well on their year-end appraisals another year to specialize in one area of interest.

The Ontario Public

Service Internship program recruits recent university and college graduates to work in the Ontario Public Service. Internship is a two-year training initiative that provides young people with on-the-job experience. This year, the ministry hired six interns to fill positions ranging from a bilingual deputy conservation officer to an environmental assessment biologist. The program is funded by the Human Resources Secretariat.

The Ontario/Quebec Summer Student Exchange program, co-ordinated by the Human Resources Secretariat, gives students from Quebec an opportunity to practise English and experience Ontario's culture. The ministry is employing 14 Quebec students this summer in resource-related positions under this program.

Play school is set to go again

Most mothers of pre-school children (ages 3 - 5) will be parking outside Minden's St. Paul's Anglican church at 7:45 p.m. in anticipation of the 8:00 p.m. meeting and registration scheduled for Thursday, September 21, says this year's President, Skip

Ray.

As in the past 16 years that the Minden Nursery

Play has operated, enthusiastic moms will help to provide a relaxed but busy atmosphere where our little ones can learn to socialize harmoniously.

The playschool provides an equipped environment where activities such as circle time, crafts, and story time enable our youngsters to express themselves imaginatively, develop co-ordination and learn the skills of sharing and inter-play with others. It allows children to become independent from their environment by learning, on three out of four days to be with other friendly, helpful adults.

This year's Executive, consist of: Skip Ray; Donna Austin, Vice-President; Noreen Malloy, Secretary; Betty Fox, Treasurer; and Judy Davidson and Nancy Keetch - Craft Co-ordination. They will be happy to answer any questions you may have. Skip and Donna can be reached at 489-2736 and 286-4791 respectively.

Kinettes choose new executive

Hi Folks. Kinettes have resumed for another season. We are armed with a new President, Ruth Travers and a new Executive.

Have you ever thought about joining us?

We are a volunteer group working to serve our community. Each year we do our best to help the senior citizens and the youth of our town. As well, we support the Cancer Society, United Way of Victoria and Haliburton Counties, Hearing Society, CNIB, VON, March of Dimes, Fire Victims, Trust Funds, Summer Camp, Easter Seals, Haliburton Guild of Fine Arts, Red Cross Swim and Summer Programs, Agnes Jamieson Gallery, Hyland Crest Bus Fund, Ride for Sight and others.

Our National Project is C.F. and I'm sure you have heard by now there has been a big advance in the research of C.F. Imagine how proud we feel knowing our dollars have helped in this research. You could feel this pride too.

Although we are volunteers and do a lot of work we also enjoy a lot of friendship within our own Club and with other Clubs in our organization.

If you would like to join or just know more about us give me a call. My name is Marg, I'm membership chairperson this year and you can reach me at 286-1171 or you may contact any Kinette. We are an open Club now, therefore you may join whether your husband is a Kinsmen or not.

If you can't join us please support our projects for the good of the community, and thanks to everyone that has supported us in the past.

Waterways Report

The water levels continued to decline with the air temperatures generally above normal the week up to September 8. In Haliburton the stored water on Trent-Severn lakes averaged 50.2 percent on September 5, compared to the ten-year average of 59 percent for that date. Last year they averaged only 43.5 percent on September 5.

The Kawartha Lakes has responded well to the rain of August 31 to September 1, which averaged much greater amounts than in Haliburton. No draw of reserve water was needed, therefore, to maintain the canal levels, near-minimum flows were running on the Trent tributaries such as the Gull and Burnt during this week.

lives, but had not danced together from 1936 till Friday. Ruby also step danced. Thank you all, we appreciate you coming.

Ed and Peggy Pettinger were here to visit Peggy's sister Maizie McIntosh Friday.

Saturday, September 9, 1989 was a very special occasion. Mrs. Isabella Eastman celebrated her one hundredth birthday. The auditorium was nicely decorated and her son Doug Eastman brought her in, in a wheelchair decorated beautifully with a white umbrella and streamers. She was seated at a table especially for her. Many pictures were taken of her and her family. Isabella was presented with several plaques. Bern Berry presented one from the County, Gary McKnight, presented one from Bill Scott MP, Victoria and Haliburton and one from John Eakins MPP, Victoria and Haliburton and good wishes cards. A delicious lunch was served to her relatives and friends. She was presented with a lovely birthday cake having one hundred lighted candles. Happy birthday and good health.

Friday, September 8, Ada Turrall had her sister Lily and husband Bill from Gravenhurst to visit her and Monday, September 11 May and Austin Mills from Richmond Hill, very old friends of Ada.

Friday, September 8 my son and wife (Terry and Norma) and my grandson Kevin's wife Claudia had dinner with me.

The Lion's Club of Minden sold tickets during the summer and held the draw on the village green Saturday, September 9 at 2 o'clock. Winners were 1st place $1,000 R. Lucas, Oshawa, drawn by Reeve ray Moore, 2nd place $750 won by John White of West Hill, drawn by Deputy Reeve Bern Berry, 3rd place $500 won by Reg Hart, Minden, drawn by Acting Administrator and County Clerk Gary McKnight, 4th place $250 won by Mary Tweedle of Orillia, drawn by Gerry Jordon of Highland Jewellery and China Shop, 5th place $100 won by Helen Donaldson of Minden drawn by Times publisher Jack Brezina. Proceeds from the draw will be presented to acting administrator Gary McKnight for the Hyland Crest Bus Fund on Friday, September 15. The residents of Hyland Crest Senior Citizens Home sincerely thank you for this generous gift and for all the hard work to make this project such a success.

Monday morning in the crafts room a Resident's Council meeting was held at which several problems were discussed and decided upon to improve our home.

Monday evening Ena Marion and her husband showed three films in the auditorium. The first was the Railroaders, 2nd Highway One, and the 3rd Florida Everglades. We enjoyed them and thank you for using your time to entertain us.

Congratulations to Gladys Kirkpatrick on her birthday September 10, Bill Moore on his birthday September 11, and Nancy Carefoot on her birthday on September 12. Happy birthday to all.

Pastor Fast of Gospel

Church Minden held the Tuesday morning Chapel Service.

Tuesday afternoon Doris and Linda took some of the residents for a bus ride to Birch Tree Corners, Lochlin, Donald, Haliburton and Gooderham by the Buckhorn Road, back to Haliburton and home via Highway 121. It was a beautiful day and we all enjoyed it.

Ada Lewis is still in Peterborough Hospital. Lillian James is also in Peterborough having treatment on her eyes. We wish them a speedy recovery.

Harold and Wendy Kirkpatrick and Wendy's sister who just returned from England was here to see Harold's mother Gladys Kirkpatrick. Grace Sipes, Tom Kirkpatrick, his wife and daughter were here Sunday to see Gladys on her birthday.

Last week Dora Dawson had Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Edwards from Scarborough to visit her.

Lillian James is back from Peterborough and Alice Rivers has returned from Oshawa. We are glad to see them both home.

"WHERE THE ACTION IS"

Heart beats strong in rural Canada

by Bill Scott, M.P.

Flying at 30,000 feet, our country appears as a patchwork of farm and field, an indication that our national heart beats most strongly in rural Canada.

However easy life on the farm might seem to the city dweller, it is a life complicated by an array of interesting and challenging issues. Indeed, it is in the solutions to those challenges that the bond between urban and rural Canada can be found.

Because farming is so tied to the land, its role in environmental degradation and resource depletion is an issue for many Canadians. While it is true that farming is both economically and spiritually important for Canadians, it is also true that our agriculture industries must be ecologically sound if they are to remain economically viable.

We need to explore ways to integrate economics with environmental and health concerns. In short, we need to devise a sustainable agriculture sector.

Sustainable agriculture should be environmentally sound, economically viable, socially just and humane. And to achieve this, all levels of society must contribute, from producers to industry, governments and consumers.

Chemical use on the farm is a worry; and so it should be, because there are several classes of farm chemicals that have negative health effects associated with them. But chemicals are also useful, and consumers have come to expect that reasonably priced, tasty and attractive food that modern pesticides and fertilizers make possible.

Clearly, both consumers and producers, with help and guidance from all levels of government, must get together to discuss how to strike a balance between economics and health concerns.

Another issue Canadians face is the matter of soil and water degradation. Many modern farming techniques, while efficient, require vast amounts of water and put millions of tonnes of topsoil at risk. Simply putting an end to soil-and-water intensive farm practices is not the answer; as in the case of chemical use, we must find a balance between what is environmentally desirable and what is economically realistic.

Meeting the challenges posed by modern agriculture will require the ingenuity and goodwill of
